RED FLAGS

to Spot Before You Hire A Painting Contractor

CertaPro Painters®

Are you tired of shoddy craftsmanship, painting contractors who vanish like ghosts, and mystery fees that appear out of thin air? It's time to regain control, protect your wallet, and demand the best quality. In this exclusive guide, we'll unveil the 'Top 8 Money Murdering Red Flags' to spot before you sign that dotted line with ANY house painters.

No Clear Estimate

A Company's estimate should be a clear and comprehensive breakdown of costs, not a cryptic riddle. If a contractor can't provide a transparent quote for labor, materials, and other expenses up front, that's Red Flag #1. We suggest you back off right away.

Lack of References or Testimonials

Any reputable painting company should have a portfolio of satisfied clients singing their praises. No testimonials or a reluctance to provide references? Consider it Red Flag #2.

Uninsured or Unlicensed

Never, and we mean NEVER, hire uninsured or unlicensed painters. It's a ticking time bomb of both frustration and liability that could blow up your finances. Red Flag #3? Check.

Quote-Before-Inspection

If a contractor offers a quote without inspecting the project, that's Red Flag #4. Accurate quotes require a thorough understanding of the project. Contractors that aren't sure of what you want during the quote are best left alone.

Lack of Warranty

A confident, skilled contractor offers a warranty in case anything happens after a project. A company that doesn't stand by its work is waving Red Flag #5 in your face.

Poor Communication

The headache of dealing with unresponsive or unclear contractors isn't worth your time or money. Mark down Red Flag #6 if they can't maintain clear, professional communication.

No Color Consultants

Expert color advice can enhance your home's appeal. If this service is absent, it could lead to aesthetic disasters. Your house painters need experienced consultants to provide guidance, helping you choose colors that match your vision and increase your home's value. Add Red Flag #7 if they don't include that.

Unprofessionalism

Last but certainly not least is unprofessional behavior - messy job sites, missed deadlines. or disrespect are all Red Flag #8 indicators. Word of advice: if you aren't okay having a cup of coffee with them, then you definitely wouldn't be okay with them handling an important job in your living spaces.

Now that you're equipped with this knowledge, you can avoid these costly mistakes and take control of your painting project.
